EUROPEAN DIGITAL TREASURES: MANAGEMENT OF CENTENNIAL ARCHIVES IN THE 21ST CENTURY

CATALOGUE OF PROTOTYPES OF MERCHANDISING PRODUCTS

Within the framework of European Digital Treasures project, the partner institutions are working on the key objective to generate a greater added value, profitability, visibility and economic return for European archives, through the implementation of new business models. In this framework, one question arises: Why do archives throughout Europe receive hundreds of thousands of visitors and users every year, but unlike museums, most of them do not have their own shops or merchandising products?

To try to fill this gap and evaluate possible sources of revenue, the project partners engaged 12 graphic and industrial designers from Spain, Austria, Hungary, Malta and Portugal to wrap their creative heads around selected archival key documents (50 in total) from the three planned transmedia exhibitions of the project and turn them into resourceful merchandise objects.

This catalogue is the result of the work of each one of the 12 designers, and was complemented with an artistic residence that took place in Madrid 17th to 21st of February 2020 hosted by the Spanish State Archives.

During the residence the group united in Madrid to present, evaluate and discuss prototypes of merchandising objects, including visits to the most inspiring artistic hotspots of the city.

The fine line our creative minds had to balance while preparing prototypes was, how to bridge a historical context depicted by an archival document into merchandise with out-of-the-box changeovers, but without unhinging the relevance the archival treasure has in view of our shared European heritage. Not an easy task – but we found a variety of solutions and products to be presented during and after the residency- as each designer has his/her own creative focus, preferred working method and material, educational background etc.

968/970*

National Historical Archive
(Spain)

This manuscript was elaborated in the scriptorium of the San Salvador de Tábara Monastery (Zamora) was written in the 8th century by Santo Toribio de Liébana. The miniature tower of the San Salvador de Tábara Monastery is the oldest image of a scriptorium in European art. Two scribes are working on the scriptorium and in an adjacent room a figure of a person seated cutting the skin of an animal with scissors. The image of the scriptorium is like a medieval office, two people working on a desk, just like a modern-day coworking space. Trays like this one are very useful objects to have on an office desk. A figure of a person seated, cutting the skin of an animal with scissors. Some ways of working have not changed at all, to make this tray with leather we cut it with scissors; on the back we have engraved the logo of Digital Treasures.

For this manuscript, I have chosen a notebook, inserted some pages to show the way people like us used to write. Nowadays, we do not spend so much time on the initial letter of the paragraph, but in ancient time people used red ink and adorned the letter with various motifs. The manuscript contains a unitary corpus of Works of moral character attributed to Lucius Annaeus Seneca, Seneca the Younger, the most widespread version in the Middle Ages. It highlights the great miniature, full-page, which represents the author in Roman figure reading next to an open bookstore.

Crown of Aragon Archive
(Spain)

In this letter of 1324, King Ismail I of Granada informs King James II of Aragon of the arrival of six Muslims captured in peacetime. The document reflects the complexity of relations between the Muslim Kingdom of Granada and the Christian of Aragon, with the succession of periods of war and peace.

I thought of a painting of the handing over of the Keys of the city of Granada by Boabdil to the Catholic Kings and came up with the design of the Keyring, although it happened years later in 1492.

Act of the delivery of the Holy Chalice existing in the Monastery of San Juan de la Peña to King Martin I of Aragon, so that he could deposit it in his royal chapel, in exchange for the donation of a golden chalice. 1399

Crown of Aragon Archive (Spain)

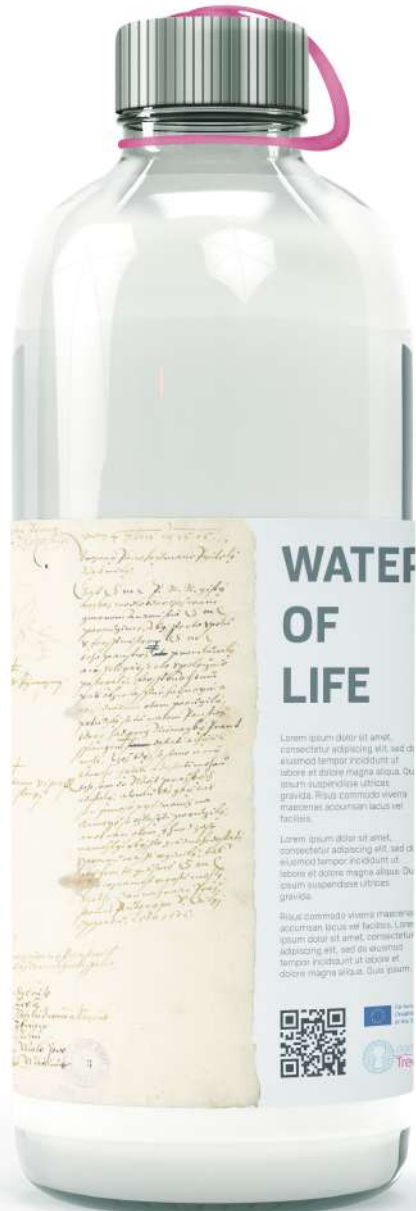

This parchment is the notarial act in public form of the delivery to King Martin I of Aragon of a Stone chalice existing until then in the monastery of San Juan de la Peña, identified since the 12th century as the holy grail used by Jesus Christ at the Last Supper. The act was authorized by the royal secretary in September 1399. Later, in 1437 the chalice was given by King Alfonso V to the cathedral of Valencia as a guarantee of a loan to finance his military campaigns in Italy, and there it has been kept to this day. Unfortunately, we no longer send postcards, but we all like receiving them. This particular card combines the joy of receiving a card with the mystery of solving a puzzle.

Wool scarf

Constitution scarf § I
Jacquard woven scarf with extracts from the Constitution. Made in natural brown and white wool from Norwegian sheep.

Did you know that the Jacquard loom is part of our digital history? Invented in 1804, ten years before the Norwegian Constitution was written, it used punch cards for the patterns – and the technique is considered the very first data programming. Punch cards were used in computers even up to the 1980's!

The Mass of Saint Olav

The Mass of Saint Olav is a unique example of poetic and musical creativity from a little documented period of Norwegian history.

This medieval sheet contains Lux illuxit letabunda, used in the celebration of Saint Olav on his Feast Day, Olsok. It gives us a vivid insight into the ecclesiastical history of Northern Europe.

While the content dates back to the end of the 12th Century, the manuscript is written in the 15th Century.

The parchment is one of around 6,000 fragments that were used as binding of accounts sent from Norwegian authorities to the Government in Copenhagen, mainly in the 17th Century. They were rediscovered and returned to Norway in the 19th century.

This beautiful medieval manuscript already has a history of being used as book-binding. Read the story inside!

This plan of the Manoel Theatre in Valletta forms part of the Cabreo Vilhena within the Archives of the Order of St John. A Cabreo is an inventory of the property belonging, in this case, to the Order of St John.

This splendid Cabreo, designed by Romano Carapечchia (1668-1738), documents all those edifices, gardens, windmills and all the property belonging to the foundation of the Portuguese Grand Master Antonio Manoel de Vilhena (1663-1736) who is credited with the reconstruction of Mdina after the earthquake of 1693, the building of the Manoel Theatre (to the design of Carapечchia), Fort Manoel and the town of Floriana.

The Manoel Theatre was commissioned in 1731 by Grand Master Vilhena who personally funded its construction to serve as a public theatre "for the honest recreation of the people."

Originally called the Teatro Pubblico, its name was changed to Teatro Reale in 1812, and renamed Manoel Theatre in 1866.

INSPIRED BY

A design of a sepulchral cell for Lorenzo Farrugia Bugeja and his family by architect Emanuele Luigi Galizia (1830-1907) to be built at the Addolorata Cemetery, dated 20 July 1872. The Burial Ordinance (1869) parted with the tradition of Church burials in Malta and prohibited the burial within Valletta, Floriana, Vittoriosa, Senglea and Cospicua, leading to the opening of the Addolorata Cemetery, Malta's largest cemetery. However, people were uneasy to use this cemetery. In fact, the first burial took place three years later.
